

COVID-19 Response Immediate ways to Help

The immediate need is:

- Help out seniors and others at risk for contracting COVID-19 so they can stay home away from stores and other situations where they might encounter the virus. Ways to help them is to deliver needed groceries, library books, medications, and do other errands for the seniors so they can stay at home. This might be supported through a phone number where a senior can call and request specific help.
- Parents who are still working need childcare for children now that schools are closing and daycare programs are closing. If you can help a neighboring family by providing some daycare in your home that will enable the workers to continue to provide for their families.